Story Time

Derek Lewis, Executive Director

I love story time! My wife and I fight for the right to read to our 4 year old son, William, before bedtime. Whenever possible, we let him choose the books we read. Sometimes he is sneaky, and picks the largest book, so it takes a little longer. Other times, he picks the same book for 10 nights in a row. My favorites, though, are when he picks books that I grew up reading.

We have been reading poems from Shel Silverstein's Where the Side Walk Ends a lot recently. It is one of my favorites, the illustrations are great and the tales he spins are hysterical—and just as funny now as they were when I was a kid.

There are some great stories in there about children flying in a shoe, children who won't take out the trash, and William's favorite, "I'm writing these lines from inside a lion" about an author who, you guessed it, is in a lion's mouth while writing his tales.

I often think he doesn't "get it". He laughs when I laugh, or when he sees a picture that is funny. But sometimes he surprises me.

We were in the car last week and out of the blue he said, "How big of a rock do you think Joey needed?" "What are you talking about buddy?" I asked. Then I remembered one of the poems: "Joey/Joey/Took a stone/ and knocked down the sun".

"What do you think", I asked him? "Well the sun is pretty far, so I bet he needed to be extra strong or the stone had to be easy to throw". I bet he's right.

There is a lot of emphasis put these days on reading. I know parents who are skeptical. They ask what is it all about? Do kids really need to be read to EVERY night? Can't I just let them watch Sesame Street- it talks about letters?

Quite simply, the answer is EVERYONE should read EVERY DAY. Not just to learn more words, not just to master a skill or subject, but because reading helps us imagine.

It would have never occurred to William to think about the sun, and the physics of rock throwing, without Shel Silverstein's suggestion.

There is a lot of talk about School Readiness- the research and best practices, the assumption that there are experts who are Super-teachers and have some magical superpower that guarantees children enter school ready to learn. There are a lot of early interventions out there- parenting programs, Baby Einstein DVDs, but nothing is more measurably linked to early achievement than exposure to books.

So, I challenge parents to pick one of your favorite books and READ. It is a superpower everyone can possess.

What We Do

Each of the six color blocks of the First Steps logo represents a core area of service, outlining our comprehensive strategy to prepare children for long-term school success.

With measurable outcomes across each of its six school readiness strategy areas, First Steps is getting results.

Healthy Start

We begin with a focus on providing a healthy start to life. This includes prenatal and post-partum services for both mother and baby. In 2007, First Steps collaborated with key philanthropic and agency partners to bring Nurse-Family Partnership to SC having a significant impact on reducing premature births and Medicaid costs.

Quality Childcare

Quality childcare starts with quality childcare providers. Our quality enhancement and training strategies lead to improved teacher-student interaction, which research shows has a significant impact on a child's development and success in school.

Family Strengthening

Our home visitation strategies, such as Parents as Teachers, Parent-Child Home and Early Steps to School Success, are helping parents understand their responsibilities to care for and be positive models for their children. As a result of First Steps' intervention and parenting support, 66% of clients initially assessed at "low" levels of parenting have achieved moderate or high levels of parenting skill.

Early Education

Private-public partnerships through First Steps 4K have led to significant cost efficiencies in the delivery of publicly funded 4K. One recent analysis suggests First Steps is achieving comparable results, without the need for costly capital construction, for 80 cents on the dollar.

Early Intervention

According to recent federal evaluations, outcomes for clients participating in BabyNet early intervention programs are above national averages. BabyNet matches the special needs of infants and toddlers who have disabilities and/or developmental delays with customized, community-based resources.

School Transition

Each of the corresponding blocks of services leads ultimately to the goal of transitioning children successfully to school. Programs like Countdown to Kindergarten and From Day One to Grade One are ultimately preparing children for school success.

Based on the needs of our community, Greenville First Steps focuses its investments in Healthy Start, Family Strengthening, Quality Childcare, and School Transition.

Helping vulnerable first-time mothers empowers them to achieve a better life for themselves and their children.

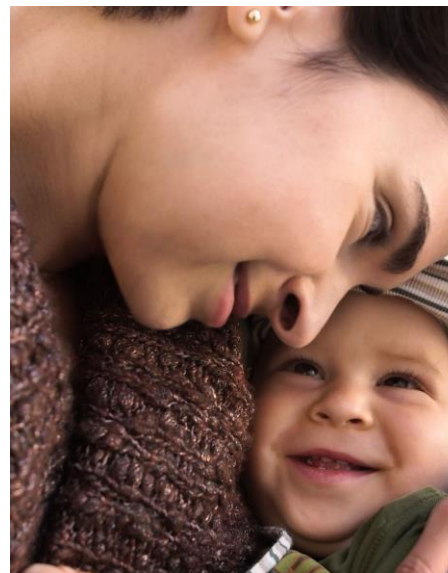

Program Description

Nurse-Family Partnership (NFP) helps transform the lives of vulnerable first-time mothers and their babies. Through ongoing home visits from registered nurses, low-income, first-time moms receive the care and support they need to have a healthy pregnancy, provide responsible and competent care for their children, and become more economically self-sufficient. From pregnancy until the child turns two years old, Nurse-Family Partnership Nurse Home Visitors form a much-needed, trusting relationship with the first-time moms, instilling confidence and empowering them to achieve a better life for their children – and themselves.

In Greenville, Oconee, and Pickens Counties, Nurse-Family Partnership is implemented through the Greenville Health System.

Greenville First Steps serves families in greatest need. Among our NFP families:

- 48% ... reduction in child abuse and neglect
- 56% ... reduction in ER visits
- 82% ... increase in maternal employment
- 68% ... increase in father involvement

Without the support of my nurse, there is no way I could be close to graduating from Greenville Tech. Her ongoing help has made a huge difference in the life of my child.--Savannah

This year, our NFP program:

- ✓ Nurse manager, Elena Houston, hired September 2014. Elena has a Masters degree in Nursing and a Master's degree in Business. The majority of her experience has been in maternal child and public health.
- ✓ 6 NFP nurses became certified Childbirth Educators

Parents are their child's first and best teachers.

Program Description

BABYSTEPS is a 7 week summer enrichment program funded by Greenville First Steps and operated by Little Steps.

The program provided educational, social, and community resources to 12 teens who were either pregnant or new mothers. Program participants rotated through classes focusing on educational tutoring, labor and delivery, infant care, nutrition, peer group counseling, and parenting. In addition, teens were provided with the opportunity to go on field trips in Greenville County.

Teens earned Baby Bucks during classes and were able to "shop" in the Little Steps baby boutique to receive essential items such as diapers, baby and maternity clothes, strollers, high chairs, and toys. Throughout the summer and during the following school year, all BABYSTEPS participants who had a child were given a full scholarship to a pre-approved high quality childcare center.

This year, BABYSTEPS provided an opportunity for participants to earn a class credit through Greenville County School District's Distance Learning option. Through partnerships with the Greenville Health System, Greenville County School District, Greenville Technical College, Small Impressions Child Development Center, the summer BABYSTEP participants added valuable information to their "toolbox" to be better parents, stay in school, graduate, and raise a happy, healthy, and ready to learn child.

CenteringPregnancy is a CenteringPregnancy® is group prenatal care. Greenville First Steps partners with Greenville Health System and the YMCA of Greenville to fund a childcare center on site at the OB/GYN clinic. Too many mothers who already had children were unable to participate in CenteringPregnancy due to lack of childcare. By offering free childcare during sessions, more mothers are able to receive quality, group based prenatal care.

Child Care Scholarships

Too many families in Greenville County cannot afford quality care for their children.

Program Description

Access to quality child care is essential for children while away from their primary caregivers. Yet, of those families income-eligible for child care assistance in South Carolina, only a small fraction receive it due to lack of funds. In the absence of nurturing and consistently available family, friends or neighbors, parents are faced with few - or no - affordable care options.

Greenville First Steps serves families in greatest need. Among our scholarship families:

- 74% ... live in poverty
- 47% ... didn't graduate from high school
- 58% ... were teen parents
- 3% ... had developmental delays

In addition to regular monitoring of child care providers that receive First Steps scholarships, First Steps conducts at least one developmental screening each year with scholarship children and connects families to needed services within the community.

Also, all scholarship recipients are required to attend a monthly parenting training or a home visit from the child's teacher.

Without the funding Greenville First Steps provides, this family wouldn't be where they are today. –Christi Maholtz

Countdown to Kindergarten

Bringing parents and teachers together as partners sets the foundation for success in school.

Program Description

Countdown to Kindergarten (CTK) is a summer home visitation model connecting rising kindergartners and their families with their future teachers. The program is designed:

- ✓ to forge strong and lasting home-school relationships,
- ✓ to acquaint children and families with the state and classroom expectations to increase the likelihood of school success,
- ✓ to increase parent involvement in the early grades (particularly in hard-to-reach communities), when children's learning is foundational for life success; and
- ✓ to increase public awareness of the importance of school readiness and provide ways for parents and communities to impact children's early school success.

Countdown to Kindergarten integrates all of the following:

Home Visitation. Teachers make six visits over the summer to the homes of participating students and families. Children and families are introduced to actual materials used in kindergarten and are given a Kindergarten Transition Toolkit to keep.

Learning Celebration. The last visit is a "field trip" to the school where the child will attend class in the fall.

Public Awareness. Throughout the summer, First Steps releases tips to media to help parents and caregivers get children ready for kindergarten.

Community Education

In order to thrive, children need nurturing, responsive relationships and a supportive learning environment, both within and outside the home.

Program Description

Project Pinwheel:

As abuse or neglect in the home is the number one risk factor for school failure, Greenville First Steps uses the month of April as a catalyst for creating conversation about the prevention of abuse. During April, Greenville County is "spinning" with blue and silver pinwheels, the national symbol for Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Project Pinwheel is a community wide Child Abuse Prevention effort, coordinated by Greenville First Steps with support from several partner agencies including Children's Trust of South Carolina, Greenville Health System, Greenville County Department of Social Services, and Primrose School of Greenville.

Read Greenville:

Working off the success of Project Pinwheel, Greenville First Steps launched Read Greenville. Read Greenville serves as an awareness campaign aimed at encouraging everyone in Greenville County, regardless of age, to read daily.

In 2015, Greenville First Steps provided the opportunity for local nonprofits, childcare centers, neighborhoods and schools to submit proposals for early childhood literacy projects. Eighteen organizations were awarded funds or books to serve over 80,000 children in Greenville County.

Quality Childcare

YMCA Judson Community Center

Jayla started attending preschool two years ago at the Judson Community Center with the help of Greenville First Steps scholarship program. She was three years old. Throughout her participation at the Y, Jayla showed impressive gains in language development, such as speaking in complete sentences and using grammar correctly.

Jayla was well prepared emotionally, socially and intellectually to begin school as a kindergarten student. Equally as important, Jayla learned valuable social skills, and views everyone around her as a friend.

Her mother said, "Jayla will talk to anyone, regardless of their race or anything that may be different about them." Her mother is a single parent and when she was between jobs and couldn't afford the program's weekly payments, the Y was able to continue to support Jayla's learning and growth, thanks to Greenville First Steps' scholarships.

Jayla, who has been receiving Greenville First Steps childcare vouchers for 2 years, entered school ready to learn.

We are all Superheroes for Children

Quick, name one of your child's superheroes. If you said Superman or Batman, great! But, what about the superheroes we see on a daily basis? Our children need heroes.

Our children need people who we can aspire to be.

Our children need leaders who can help us when we are lost, confused or scared.

Heroes like pediatricians, firefighters, teachers, librarians, soccer coaches, and most importantly, heroes like parents.

We know that nearly 75% of a child's brain is developed in the first 3 years. Those critical months are essential in building complex pathways within our brain that will carry decades of knowledge, content, and information.

We also know that there are a few critical things that every family can do to help a child enter school on track. This is where we need families, and community members to help children succeed.

Parents are superheroes when they read daily to their children. Nothing is a better predictor of 3rd grade reading success than early exposure to books.

Pediatricians are superheroes when they screen children for developmental delays at well-baby checks. Early identification of delays can guarantee children receive treatments that often prevent need for remediation and Special Education interventions later in life.

Priests, pastors, and members of the faith community are superheroes when they work to build relationships between families, supporting parents and children who need emotional connections. One of the greatest ways to prevent abuse in the home (a strong predictor of early school failure) is the strengthening of social connections.

Youth Sports coaches are superheroes, not just because of the whistle and 70s era shorts and knee socks. We know that youth sports are essential to building healthy active living, and in instilling the importance of teamwork and community.

Greenville First Steps is committed to promoting the things families can do to help ensure children enter school on track and ready to succeed. And so, on behalf of all of our children who are seeking heroes, Thank You for all you do.

First Steps has raised $1.39
